Hewlett-Packard Calculators for Business and Finance

The best for your success.

If you're in real estate or finance, you know that Hewlett-Packard has set the standard for serious financial calculators for years. Since the introduction of the HP 80 in 1973, professionals who wanted to work smarter, not harder, have turned to HP calculators for the very best.

Today, HP offers a complete line of financial calculators...all designed to make your work easier. Depending on what you do now—or where you're headed—you can find the HP calculator that fits your specific needs. Start with the top-of-the-line, multi-featured HP Business Consultant II...or choose the practical, easy-to-use HP 17BII. Or consider the economical HP 10B or the time-tested HP 12C.

If you have a preference for either algebraic or RPN* entry, you can pick the calculator that works in your favorite mode. Choose the HP Business Consultant II or the HP 17BII, and you'll have both entry modes—you can choose one mode or the other just by pressing a few keys!

Whichever HP financial calculator you choose, you'll discover the unparalleled quality that is HP. Whether you're a practiced hand at HP calculators or a first-time user, you'll find these hard-working calculators are easy to use, fast, reliable...and simply indispensable.

If you're really serious about real estate or finance, you need a serious financial calculator. It has to be HP.

*Algebraic entry is the traditional way you learned to do math—you enter each number followed by an operator (+, -, =, etc.). Example:  $12 + 15 + 2 =$ . With RPN (Reverse Polish Notation), you enter the numbers, then the operator (12 ENTER, 15+, 2+), and a running total is displayed as you work.
